President's Message

As the new golf season approaches, we have reason to be optimistic that things will be closer to what we consider "normal". We will most likely see versions of golf pre-pandemic and pandemic. Courses are allowing more 2-person carts versus single rider and closer to allowing shotgun versus only tee times. Some clubs will be serving food and others will not. Please have patience with clubs as they steer through restrictions placed by various government regulations. Until most of the population is vaccinated, and the spread of COVID-19 is minimized we will be dealing with various levels of precaution.

You are ultimately responsible for how you want to proceed. If you do not feel comfortable riding with another player in your cart be sure to ask if you can ride alone.

Options for carts from various clubs I have polled range from single rider only to only two carts per foursome and a variation of both. The first option is obvious, the second option varies. Some will only allow those who arrived together, others will allow those from the same club and finally two golfers per cart regardless.

You will most likely see some changes in the formats instead of the standard formats we are used to. Be open to whatever you encounter and remember we get to play golf at courses other than our home course this season.

And You Think Progress Is an Illusion

Jim Ewalt sent the following article for the MISGAGRAM. Reading it I was struck something we tend to forget: Technology has made a real difference in our lives (beyond being able to play Tetris in the loo).

Inspired by this thought, I've included a COVID bonus for this issue -- a little something I dug from my files that proves the first point in spades. Off topic just a wee bit, but roll with it.

How A Missed Putt Started A Golf Ball Empire

Phillip E. "Skipper" Young, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, founded Titleist in 1932.

When playing a round of golf with his dentist, Young missed a sure putt that seemed to be caused by the weight of the ball. He then asked his dentist friend to X-ray the ball and the film showed that the rubber core was off-centre.

After this initial discovery, Young took X-rays of more golf balls and found that most were poorly constructed with off-centre cores and prone to erratic shots. This inspired Young to produce his own line of golf balls, which would become known as Titleist.

1930: Young developed a machine that could uniformly wind rubber string around a rubber core, making a "dead center" golf ball. He named the ball "Titleist," noting it was the "winner" of the quest to create the best for the game.

1935: The golf division of the Acushnet Process Company produced the Titleist golf ball which had consistently been the company's most successful product.

1948: Introduced "Dynamite Thread" to increase the yardage of their balls.

1949: Titleist became the most used ball at the U.S. Open Tournament.

1976: Titleist was purchased by American Brands (now known as Fortune Brands).

1985: Fortune Brands sold off the Acushnet Company's Acushnet Rubber division, which was Acushnet's original business (circa early 1900s).

2002: Titleist reached the $1 billion mark in annual revenues.

On December 8, 2010, Fortune Brands announced that it would soon sell or spin off Titleist and some other brands. It was then announced on May 20, 2011 that a Korean group associated with Fila Korea, Ltd. and Mirae Asset Private Equity would purchase Acushnet for $1.23 billion in cash.

Acushnet employs roughly 3000 people in Massachusetts, making it one of the largest employers in the region. It is headquartered in Fairhaven, Massachusetts alongside its Packing and Distribution Center about three miles south of its original location.

They also have two golf ball manufacturing plants and an R&D Technology Center located in the New Bedford Industrial Park, as well as a Custom Golf Ball plant located in New Bedford.

And all this due to a missed putt... and a lot of blood sweat and tears, persistence, & dedication to making things happen!

Now for the COVID bonus. Sorry for the poor quality, but the poor thing has been copied on inferior equipment too many times. I believe it's a legit ad.

Waldorf was a Scott Paper brand. I know for a fact that some of the pulping and papermaking technology in use in the 30's and earlier would yield a pretty scratchy sheet. No comment on the social dynamics.

TIDBITS OF MISGA HISTORY

The Eastern Shore

From its inception, the leaders of MISGA were well aware of the fine golf courses and golfers on the Delmarva Peninsula. Equal recruiting effort was spent there as well as in the Washington-Baltimore areas. Meetings were arranged at Green Hill on November 17, 1976 and at Talbot on November 30, 1976. MISGA President Al Hagen and other MISGA officials met with representatives from eight clubs - Cambridge, Caroline, Elks, Green Hill, Nassawango, Ocean City, Ocean Pines and Talbot Country Clubs.

The representatives from Ocean City and Ocean Pines felt their seniors' programs did not match-up with the MISGA program and practices; hence they opted not to join. However, the other six clubs joined MISGA. The Club Representatives formed an Eastern Shore organization with Reed Kurtz of Green Hill, as president and Ames Schuck from Caroline, as Vice-President. Other Club Reps in 1977 were Allen Eckel of Cambridge, Bill Grant of Nassawango, Bill Long of Elks and Ed Schmidt of Talbot.

The Eastern Shore began "mixer" operations in 1977 and began expanding their region in 1978 with the addition of Seaford in Delaware. This became a source of a misunderstanding. When the Seaford application reached the MISGA Secretary, he returned it as unacceptable because Seaford was in Delaware. The By-Laws at that time specified only Maryland clubs could be a member of MISGA. The Secretary was unaware that the situation had been thoroughly discussed by the Board. Specific authorization had been granted by the Board to MISGA President Hagen to invite Seaford to join MISGA. At the next Board meeting, the By-Laws were modified using wording proposed by Allen Eckel, to allow membership by clubs in "contiguous areas".

Seaford joined MISGA in 1978. Shawnee became a member in 1979, as did Ocean City, followed by Ocean Pines in 1980, Chester River in 1981 and Prospect Bay and Sussex Pines in 1983. The Eastern Shore activities ranged from “mixers” through the full spectrum of MISGA events. With regard to “mixers”, it was early decided that distances were too great to insist on routine “mixers” between the Eastern and Western Shore clubs. However, the Eastern Shore clubs have always been active in special events and invitational outings. One such, in 1979, had Eastern Shore seniors playing at Kenwood and Bethesda in August, then in September, Caroline and Talbot were hosts to the Washington group.
